SPIRITUAL WARFARE AND FINANCIAL BREAKTHROUGH 18/08/2010

THE BURDEN (BONDAGE) OF JABEZ (1 Chronicle 4:9-10; Eze. 48:38)

The burden or bondage of Jabez actually began at birth. It was a foundational problem as it has to do with the name given to him by his very own mother. This goes along way to further establish what we have been taught in the past on the roles names play in the lives of those bearing such names. However, Jabez was quick to recognise the source of his problem and took appropriate action. His was a desperate cry from a man born into the tribe of Judah, a major player in the covenant blessing of Israel but found himself living far less than God's ultimate for him. Through the instrument of prayers, he was able to change his destiny forever. These spiritual warfare prayers transformed his life to a more "blessed life" with extraordinary measure of divine favour, anointing and protection. He became an embodiment of God's miraculous power.

Jabez and his life burden:

Prior to God's intervention, Jabez was living a life that betrayed God's covenant to Abraham-the covenant of the blessed life. His had been a meaningless, empty and wasteful life. Jabez had been operating under profitless hard labour as a result of the curse that was placed upon him from birth. He needed to break the circle of financial disfavour that shut the doors of breakthroughs and opportunities against him. He was just a sound and not a voice among his brethren and household. To be wealthy enough to fulfil God's planned desires for one's life, there is a battle to fight.

The Battle of Jabez.

It was a battle to break the circle of pain and sorrows surrounding his life. The battle to destroy the forces responsible for his lack of achievement. His past was pitiful, his future was hopeless. His battle was to stop a circle of frustration, rejection, disappointment and poverty for himself and the generation after him. It was a battle to break the the evil parental pronouncement /curse that followed him from birth.

The breakthrough of Jabez: (Matthew 7:7; Jer. 29:12-14)

The breakthrough of Jabez came as a result of his prayers. His prayers were effective and the Lord granted his request. As we seek the Lord today, He will grant our entire request in Jesus name.
